

Aldworth Philharmonic Orchestra

Performance Poetry Competition

Do you want to be part of a journey through the planets?

On Saturday 1st February, Reading's Aldworth Philharmonic Orchestra will present two concerts based around Gustav Holst's famous suite, The Planets.

As part of the concerts, poems will be performed before the music that depicts each planet. This provides an opportunity for you to get your creative juices flowing and enter our competition to write one of those poems.

Winners can choose to perform their poem in the concerts, or hear it performed by someone else, and there will be other exciting prizes, too!

More details of how to enter this free competition, which is open to all ages, can be found on the APO website:

www.apo.org.uk

Closing date - Friday 17th January

Images: NASA

